

2012 Summer Interns—Feedback

It was a good experience. I can't say I learned anything especially new about myself. However, I did like how the workshop drew a distinction between the different personality types of people, how we can identify them, and how we should go about working with them. I also found the conflict resolution portion very informative as well. Understanding that people have underlying trigger buttons will help me identify and avoid them. Before, I never really thought about the process in which a conflict is initiated-Alex

I really enjoyed the True Colours Workshop. The email tips and how to deal with others in the work environment was very informative. Gary is a great speaker, very enthusiastic and entertaining! - Lorna

I really enjoyed the workshop. I like going deep into people's minds and figuring out why we act a certain way, I thought about all the ways I could use Gary's advice in not only trying to help with understanding myself but how I conduct myself with people. It was an overall very positive experience to me.-Ryan

I really enjoyed the workshop. I think the presenter made it fun and informative. I would suggest more activities as the second half of the workshop. Thanks for setting up these great intern activities! -Trishalla

I can say that I really enjoyed it. It was interactive and really gave insight into the needs, joys and values of people with personality types other than my own – I would definitely recommend it. I can really see my department benefitting from an activity like this. -

Jason

The workshop this morning was insightful and fun! I enjoyed learning about how people's personality traits affect daily interactions and decisions, both in the workplace and outside. Thank you -

Meg
It was engaging as well as informative and allowed us to reflect on both our strengths and weaknesses. I for one will be using some of the presentation suggestions mentioned in the session tomorrow during my first formal presentation at Morguard. Thanks, -

I really enjoyed the workshop and would encourage the company to do it again for students in the future. I would maybe make the session a bit shorter. I definitely support any program that helps students find what career would be best for them. Thanks very much! -

Brandon

I thought that this was a great experience to allow everyone to better see what their True colour was and how the different traits relate to them. The different ways of communicating effectively in a corporate environment, such as through email and in person really made myself more aware of how important wording and tone of voice are. -
